

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A connection member of a treadmill has a front plate and a rear plate which is connected to the front plate by bolts. Two first passages are defined between the front plate and the rear plate for receiving the two posts of the treadmill. A second passage is defined in the connection member for receiving a control panel post.

5